METAL SUPPLY GETTING SHORT

Danger of a Runaway Market For Copper is Imminent

Boston—Joseph Clemenian, manager of sales of the American Smelting & Refining Co., says:

"It looks very much as if the copper situation was rapidly approaching the condition which some of us have been dreading for several months. We seem actually to be facing the imminent danger of a runaway market for the metal in this country."

"Consumers are not supplied with their full requirements, and yet many of the leading producers are practically sold out all through October."

"This situation shows up in Europe today, in that leading dealers in the metal on that side of the water are now holding at above the producers' price, whereas ordinarily they are under the producers' prices, demonstrating that they are sold out, and that the producers are the only ones now having any stock of the metal left. This is an extremely unfortunate position, and is unquestionably contrary to the best interests of both producers and consumers. There could be no greater boom to the copper industry as a whole than a reasonable stability of price, but with the climax of factors which have produced the present situation it has been inevitable that the price of copper should again climb rapidly upward."

"The factors curtailing the output are too well known to command more than casual references. Among others have been the Lake strike, strike at the Nichols refinery, and the crisis in Mexico, which has practically put several mines out of commission."

"Coupled with all this there is the remarkable and long sustained increased demand for copper from all over the world. And this remarkable consumptive ability shows no signs of cessation."

Further Advance Predicted.

Boston—Hayden, Stone & Co., in their weekly letter, say:

"The copper situation is one of much greater strength than has been appreciated. Whether durable or not, it is altogether likely that a further substantial shrinkage in stocks will be followed by a further advance in the price of the metal. As the latter class of copper stocks have not yet reflected fully even the improvement that has taken place, the outlook for this class of securities seems to be particularly promising."

October-November Copper.

The buying of Northern-Nicaragua copper has started somewhat earlier than had been looked for by operators. Orders have come into the market from both sides of the Atlantic, and as the outset were accompanied by a strengthening of prices in all directions to a firm 15-cent basis. Although September requirements have been quite generally filled, there has lingered an occasional order awaiting which copper has not yet been secured. The market promises to be as well opened out as September copper as it was of August delivery before the new month has been long in existence."

CALUMET & ARIZONA MAY ENTER HELVETIA DISTRICT

It is reported that the Calumet & Arizona Mining company is to enter the Helvetia Mining district by taking over properties of the Tip-Top Copper company. A thorough investigation is now being made, and it is said the sale is practically assured. The Tip-Top company owns one-half patented mine, the Bullocker. It is near the Helvetia, about 42 miles from Tucson, Arizona.

BROKERS' GOSSIP

Alaska.

D. C. Jackling, general manager of the Alaska Gold Mines, says that the designing of the mill has advanced so far that steel will be ordered probably in October. The August production of the Butte and Superior will be in excess of 10,000,000 pounds of zinc, says Mr. Jackling. Production at the "Chico" will be the greatest in its history. At Bay Consolidated, the August production will exceed July, but will not be a record. Utah copper production should exceed the July record.

Owing to the fact the Boston and New York stock exchanges declared a three-day holiday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday (Labor day) there are no markets today and will be none until Tuesday.

CURB NOISE AND CABARETS; CHICAGO A NOISELESS CITY

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 30.—Every day is to resemble Sunday in Chicago, if some of the new city ordinances which came into effect today serve the purpose for which they are intended. Of most general interest and importance is the anti-noise law. This is expected to throw the hardy-gurdy players, organ grinders and mouth-guitar musicians into the discard and absolutely prohibits the yell and cries of the rag pickers, knife-grinders and all street peddlers.

Another of the new ordinances is the anti-saloon law. This forbids the form of restaurant-dance hall entertainment which of late has swept like a wave from New York to San Francisco and has probably reached the zenith of its popularity in Chicago. The law prohibiting the cabaret shows makes no discrimination between the cheap music hall and the fashionable and high-priced restaurants, hotels and cafes.

Thanks to another of the ordinances put into effect today it will not now be possible for a Chicagoan to use the telephone without getting Jones' mother-in-law on the line when he wants the druggist. Nor will the sweet-voiced central longer ignore the importunities of the subscriber who gets hot under the collar after calling a quarter of an hour in vain for a number. All of these worries of life are expected to be abolished as a result of the establishment of a new telephone complaint and service bureau for which the city has appropriated $10,000. The new bureau is expected to clear every grievance at once and give full satisfaction.

SUFFRAGETTES TRAINING ON THEIR OWN RIFLE RANGE

served time for breaking windows in the homes of cabinet officers, and she was arrested a few weeks ago for assaulting Scotland Yard detective, Mr. McKenna, does not regard her as a desirable neighbor, nor does he care about her friends. She was asked for the names of her comrades who have taken the two houses so close to her own, but declined the information. She did, however, express the fervent hope that their presence would not add to the comfort of the home secretary.

Royal Leaders Immune.

The defense of the police to a little will sometimes save a woman from arrest even if she is a militant suffragette and this fact was no sooner observed by the leaders in the women's campaign than it was put to effective use.

During one of the recent battles at the London pavilion while the suffragette detail of Scotland Yards was going through its usual weekly exercise of arresting Mrs. Bankhurst, a number of her defenders were locked in a small room and placed under arrest. It happened that most of these women were subscription and advertisement solicitors for the Suffragettes and on account of their service to the official organ of the W. S. P. U. it was not desirable that they should go to jail.

President Moyer May Come.

President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners is a possible attraction at the mass meeting to be held by the strikers in the Palestra Sunday afternoon. It is stated by officials of the Federation that the head of the organization may come to the copper country for the demonstration, which will be preceded by a parade. If he arrives he also will address the mass meeting to be held at Hancock on Monday, Labor Day. Mr. Moyer is in poor health and this may prevent his coming. Demonstrations are planned for both Calumet and Hancock Monday, but on Sunday Calumet will be the rallying place of the strikers of the entire district. Should Mr. Moyer fail to arrive the meeting will be addressed by the local strike leaders.

The announcement that President

Moyer may come here was heard with considerable surprise because of the reported friction between the Moyer and so-called Mahoney-Miller factions in the organization. It has been frequently reported since the beginning of the strike that one faction seeks to retain its power while the other is ambitious to acquire supremacy in the Federation. It also has been said that the Moyer faction did not approve the calling of the strike in this district and that since the walk-out President Moyer had had a representative here who has kept him posted on the developments.

ing hysterically over the assault, was rescued.

Continue Morning Parades.

About 500 men and women sympathizers paraded about the mines and locations in an early morning demonstration today, the procession terminating at the Italian hall, where addresses in foreign languages were given by leaders. A squad of cavalrymen followed the parade and appearance of these officers prevented possible disorder. As the line of march proceeded along Oak street, the women uttered curses and remarks of "scall" at on-lookers, provoking the disgust of almost every person who viewed the demonstration. Such conduct likely will be called to civil authorities as peaceful citizens have become aroused against such evasions as are uttered by these women. Strike leaders who were in the line of march made no attempt to restrict the women, apparently giving sanction to whatever was said.

Italians Want to Work.

The "back to work" movement at the Quincy mine will receive an impetus if a report circulated this morning that the Italian miners had decided to return to work on Tuesday is authentic. It was impossible to confirm the report, but it is regarded as at least partially correct by those that are in a position to know, as it has been common knowledge for some time that the Italian element in the Federation looks on the strike as a lost battle and is anxious to get back to work.

The non-federation Italians, who seem to be in the majority among that race, have frequently expressed dissatisfaction with conditions and have been anxious to return to work as soon as a sufficient number of those similarly inclined could be mustered to insure them protection. The socialists are in control in Hancock and at the mines in the immediate neighborhood, and the Italians have had but little faith in this propaganda from the start. The Italians as a rule are less firmly attached to their church to be in sympathy with this movement, and their allegiance to a cause which has the backing of the socialists can never be more than perfunctory.

Following a parade this morning, which ended with a meeting at the Kansanotti or Socialist hall, it is understood that a party of twenty-five Italian miners met and decided not to take part in any more demonstrations, but to seek to return to work as soon as possible.

More Poverty Disclosed.

Appeals for clothing, both children's and adults', are numerous at the Associated Charities and Salvation army headquarters and conditions are becoming serious. A half dozen requests for shoes were made to the Salvation army this morning but the stock of apparel is so depleted that the appeal could not be granted. Personal investigations made by Adjutant Talbot have disclosed cases that are extremely pitiable and in consequence an appeal for cast-off clothing or money with which to buy new clothes has been issued. A majority of these requests are directly due to the strike and families hitherto able to care for themselves are now dependent on charity. In several homes visited by the Salvation army officers, pantries were bare of food and children complained of hunger, stating that their father was striking and they had no money with which to buy groceries. There is a reason for their attitude, for the Federation is endeavoring to take from them their business block on Cleveland avenue and $1,500 in cash money on deposit in one of the Ishpeming banks.

The mine workers of Ishpeming, the largest field on the Marquette iron range, have a union, but this is now in no way affiliated with the western organization of miners and the members assert that they are through with that organization for all time. There is a reason for their attitude, for the Federation is endeavoring to take from them their business block on Cleveland avenue and $1,500 in cash money on deposit in one of the Ishpeming banks.
